Special Features and Objectives

The study of economics provides a good background for careers in business and government. It develops quantitative and analytical skills which are applicable to many jobs. Some of the key objectives of this degree are:

- Preparing a graduate who can participate more productively in the progressively knowledge-based and interdependent global economy.

- Better understanding of the objectives, methods and limitations of government economic policies.

- Practical understanding on writing research essays, effective and critical reading, data collection and presentation, statistical interpretation and much more.

- To develop good skills over statistical and econometrics software to enhance the research abilities.

The program will prepare the graduates to get hold of good positions in Banks; Finance and Investment Companies; Accounting Firms; Business Services; Major Commercial and Industrial Companies; Department of Trade, Labor, Statistics, Commerce, and Planning; Universities and other Educational Institutions.